14th Australasian Plant Conservation Conference (APCC14)

The Australian Network for Plant Conservation (ANPC) and the Queensland Department of Environment, Science and Innovation are proud to be hosting the 14th Australasian Plant Conservation Conference (APCC14) in Toowoomba QLD from 13 to 17 October 2024.

Who we are

ANPC is the national network that links people, research and action in plant conservation.

Our event

The biennial Australasian Plant Conservation Conference is the premier event in Australia to discuss native plant conservation issues.

Themes

With the overall theme 'From little things...', APCC14 will explore the recovery of native plants after fire, conservation of threatened species and communities, and plant diseases including Myrtle Rust, while strengthening new and existing networks including the Queensland Threatened Plant Network.

Audience

APCC14 will bring plant conservation scientists, practitioners, agency staff, students and volunteers together from across Australia to discuss how science and innovative project work are addressing the key threats to plant conservation in Australia.

Speakers

Invited keynotes and selected speakers will showcase their work, workshops will provide an opportunity for discussion, and field trips will allow attendees from across Australia to visit local sites of ecological interest. Social functions will encourage networking and collaboration.

Previous conferences

The most recent Australasian Plant Conservation Conferences were held in Canberra in 2018 and Albury in 2022.

Partnership Opportunities

Your organisation is invited to partner with APCC14 'From little things...' and be a part of this premier event in Toowoomba, QLD!

The conference provides an excellent opportunity to promote the profile of your organisation, including your involvement in plant conservation, to representatives from government, academia, community groups and private businesses across Australia.

Depending on the level of your involvement, we will work with you to publicise your company, organisation or product both at the conference itself, and through pre- and post-conference publicity, whether it be through the conference program, proceedings and website, and/or distribution of publicity material.

The conference will be widely publicised throughout Australia and New Zealand, through our well-established professional and community networks in plant conservation science and practice, and our extensive social media channels. Adverts will be placed in the quarterly ANPC bulletin Australasian Plant Conservation, and on the websites and newsletters of the ANPC and collaborating organisations.

Many partnership options are available, and the organising committee is happy to accommodate any other forms of support, so please discuss your ideas with us. Partnership may be financial, in kind, or a discount on services. We look forward to your interest in supporting this important national conference. Please contact us to discuss your potential support.

The Partnership Coordinators can be contacted at business@anpc.asn.au and communications@anpc.asn.au
